Tower Attack Platform is a game where you are given the resources to build a minimalistic tower defense game. The game is simplistic but it allows the players to create their own adventures. In T.A.P. there are five different ships that can be built, each with its own kit, that the player can use to defend his mines. While the player is playing the game he can earn money and spend it to construct towers, walls, mines and ships. The game opens with a tutorial to explain the basics. Once the game is started the player can do whatever he wants, develop his own playing rules. The goal is to defend a position and earn money. It is in this way that the player constructs his next adventure. T.A.P. (also known as Terry A. Potts), is an American reality television series on TV Land that begins airing on October 12, 2017. Since April 2, 2019, Terrell A. Peterson, Jr. has been the host of T.A.P. Synopsis The series follows a group of self-described caddies, waiters, liquor store owners, members of the United States Corps of Commissioned Oceanographers, fishermen, plus the occasional delivery driver, who participate in various competitions during America's Cup events, sometimes against each other. They bet on themselves, not against each other. Marianne Gerone is the Olympic champion kayaker. Mary Jo Novak is a former National College and Olympic kayaker turned public speaker. Judy Lynn Battista was a National College and Olympic kayaker before becoming a high school teacher. The series also shows the lives of the married couples who have described themselves as Club Ertheim, which is the company that owns Club Ertheim in Sea Ranch, California and the San Francisco, California yacht club located near that municipality. A million-dollar lifeline The nature of the franchise is best described by the interview of the network's Vice President for Sports; as he is in a tough financial world he noted, "The reality show is $2 million a week. They eat well, they stay in good hotels and drink well. We're not in the relief business here by any stretch. They say, 'How long will the show last?' Well, if the show lasts another year, it's a good payday."
